Welcome to the 2020 edition of the Bays Area Community Directory

- Taylors Mistake to Heathcote Valley.

This directory is a publication of the Bays Area Seniors' Project.

What is the Bays Area Seniors' Project?

Our mission:

To enhance wellbeing and connectedness and reduce social isolation among seniors in the Bays area (Sumner, Redcliffs, Mt Pleasant, Heathcote Valley, Lyttelton, and Woolston)

The Bays Area Seniors Project team is a collective which consists of the following organisations and community representatives

- Sumner Bays Union Trust
- Sumner Community Residents' Association
- Redcliffs Residents' Association
- Mt Pleasant Community Centre & Residents' Association
- Heathcote Valley Community Association
- Lyttelton Community House Trust (activities not listed in this directory)
- Woolston Development Project (activities not listed in this directory)

We welcome anyone who cares about our seniors (including seniors themselves) to join us.

Our Strategic Objectives:

- Facilitating connections
- Sharing information across our areas
- Linking seniors with groups, services and activities.
- Coordinating and collaborating in our approach

Our Intended Outcomes

- Increased participation among seniors in activities/groups
- Collaboration between organisations operating in the Bays area
- Individuals in our communities know of the choices and opportunities for social connection

Our project is designed to support seniors in several ways:

- Social work support – carried out by social workers based in Sumner and Lyttelton
- Supporting our local residents to be good neighbours to their senior neighbours
- To highlight opportunities to get involved in social activities in our local community.

You will see that there are plenty of opportunities available in the directory section of this booklet.

Social isolation and loneliness are significant issues facing our seniors. We hope to alleviate this major cause of mental illness together as people living in communities. Whether you are a senior or not, there is information in this booklet for you.

Tsunami

Tsunami are created by underwater earthquakes, volcanic eruptions or landslides and are made up of waves or surges lasting for several hours. Tsunami can cause strong and unpredictable currents and surges in the sea and river mouths. Only the largest tsunamis flood land.

Things you need to know to be tsunami prepared:

Warning Signs:

- A long rolling motion earthquake that lasts longer than a minute
- A strong earthquake that makes it hard to stand up
- Unusual ocean behaviour: loud or strange noises coming from the sea (e.g. like a jet plane or train) or sudden sea level changes.

If you experience any of these warnings, you may need to evacuate.

Warning Times

Warning times for a tsunami to reach the coastline varies, depending on where they originate from and how long it takes to travel to our coastline.

Less than 1 hour of warning time: tsunami coming from close to our shore. There will not be any time to issue an official tsunami warning, or sound sirens.

THE STRONG EARTHQUAKE IS YOUR BEST WARNING

1-3 hours of warning time: tsunami coming from outside the Canterbury Region. You may feel the long-rolling earthquake. An official tsunami warning will be issued

12 hours or more of warning time: tsunami coming from across the Pacific Ocean. Official tsunami warnings will be issued. Tsunami sirens installed along the Christchurch coastline will be sounded.

You will not feel the original earthquake across the Pacific Ocean. Civil Defence official tsunami warnings are given on the radio, television, social media, or through an Emergency Mobile Alert, telling you which evacuation zones to evacuate. You can also do your bit by sharing official tsunami warnings with neighbours, friends and family.

Am I in a tsunami evacuation zone? A tsunami evacuation zone is an area that you may need to evacuate from if you feel a long or strong earthquake or if there is an official tsunami warning. To find out if you are in an evacuation zone go to www.ccc.govt.nz/tsunami

If you are not in an evacuation zone, you do not need to evacuate in a long or strong earthquake.

When is it safe to return? Stay out of the evacuation zone(s) until the "all clear" has been given by Civil Defence. If the sirens stop sounding, this does not mean you can return. Follow the instructions of emergency services and/or Civil Defence personnel. Safe to return, "all clear" messages will be broadcasted by Civil Defence using radio, TV, Newsline and social media. A tsunami warning can be in place for many hours, as the first wave may not be the biggest. So, you may be out of the evacuation zone for some time. You need to be prepared to wait for many hours until the "all clear" is given by Civil Defence.

Tips to evacuate safely

It is your responsibility to determine the best place for you and those with you to move to. Understand your evacuation zones so that you know which zones you may need to evacuate and make a household plan together. Plan your evacuation route ahead of time.

Carpool: If possible, take extra passengers in your car. Check whether your neighbour needs a ride or help evacuating. Carpooling reduces the number of cars and helps with traffic flow.

Cycle or Walk: Sometimes evacuating on foot or bike is faster because the roads can get congested easily. Why not take the time to go for a walk and plan a walk/bike evacuation route?

Talk to family and friends: If you need to evacuate, it's more comfortable to go to a friend or relative's place away from the evacuation zone(s) until the "all clear" has been given by Civil Defence. Talk to them now about your evacuation plans.

Secure your home: Make sure to lock your doors and shut windows securely, and if you can, turn off any utilities like power or gas. Secure your home as you normally would when leaving for an extended period.

Landslides/rockfall/erosion

Landslides can range from a single boulder or rock, to a very large avalanche of earth and rock. They are caused by heavy rain, earthquakes and, in some cases, human activity. Landslides often happen without warning. During a landslide: Get out of the path of the landslide quickly Warn neighbours and help others if you can Contact emergency services and Christchurch City Council.

Earthquakes

Each year we have over 150 earthquakes throughout New Zealand that are large enough to be felt. A large damaging earthquake could happen any time and can be followed by aftershocks that continue for a long time. Most earthquake-related deaths and serious injuries are caused by collapsing walls, and falling glass and objects caused by the shaking. In a major earthquake, masonry and glass can fall off buildings and into the streets.

During an earthquake: If you are inside, Drop, Cover and Hold. Do not run outside as this risks you getting hit by falling masonry and glass

If you are outside, move away from buildings, trees, streetlights, and power lines, then Drop, Cover and Hold

Stay there until the shaking stops

If an earthquake is very strong and/or long and you are near the beach or coast, move quickly to higher ground in case a tsunami follows the quake.

For more information on what to do before, during and after an earthquake, visit www.getthru.govt.nz

Storms

Major storms and severe weather can happen any time of the year. They can include strong winds, heavy rain or snow, thunder, lightning, tornadoes and rough seas. The MetService puts out severe weather watches and warnings through news services and on their website www.metservice.com and Facebook: www.facebook.com/MetService/

During a Storm:

- Secure, or move inside, anything that could cause damage in strong winds
- Close windows and doors, close curtains to prevent injury from breaking windows
- Stay inside and bring your pets inside. If you have to leave, take them with you
- Listen to the radio and follow the instructions of emergency services.

Fire

During summer we can experience long periods of hot and dry weather. This is great if you like hanging out at the beach and beside the pool, but as vegetation becomes dry in the Port Hills, the risk of wild fire increases.

Key fire safety tips include:

- Make sure your property has good access for fire trucks, and to water supplies
- Have a well-practiced escape plan so everyone knows what to do if there is a fire
- Call 111 immediately if you see any smoke
- Maintain a defensible area free of vegetation around your home
- Store firewood in a cool dry place, not next to your home. It will dry out with the sun and heat and ignite easily
- Dispose of cigarettes safely, do not throw them out of the car window
- Be vigilant when carrying out activities with machinery that may cause sparks and ignite a fire. Dampen down the surrounding area beforehand, and undertake the activity first thing in the morning when it is coolest.

REMEMBER TO CHECK THE FIRE SEASON – restrictions may be in place.

Do I need a permit for a specific type of fire in my area?

Go to <http://urban.checkitsalright.nz/check-fire-season-status/>

What does a RESTRICTED or PROHIBITED FIRE SEASON mean?

Restricted: A permit is needed to light a fire in open air.

Prohibited: There is a total ban on the lighting of any fires in open air.

Health Emergencies

Health emergencies may take a number of forms:

- Threatened or actual contamination of water supplies or food
- Outbreak of a contagious disease
- Epidemics. Infectious disease spreads rapidly to many people (e.g. SARS, Ebola)
- Pandemics. Global disease outbreak (e.g. COVID-19).

We are currently in the grip of a global pandemic. This is not likely to change for some time.

Follow government instructions on what to do and how to do it. www.covid19.govt.nz

General Considerations

- Local radio and Civil Defence websites will have the right information and GP surgery phone messages will be updated with the latest information
- Include face masks, plastic or latex protective gloves, soap and hand sanitiser in your emergency kit.
- Be prepared to remain indoors with minimal contact.

You can also call Healthline on 0800 611 116. It's free and available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Call if you:

- Feel unwell, but are not sure whether you need to see a doctor
- Need some urgent advice about a family member or friend who is sick
- Are on holiday in NZ and want to know where the nearest doctor or pharmacy is.

Notes about this directory

We have done our best to make sure that every entry is correct as at the time of publishing. It is, however, important to remember that such a directory is inevitably immediately out of date as soon as it goes to print.

Key local organisations

These are listed at the beginning of the directory section. These groups exist to support the local community in four ways:

- As entities which undertake or support community(-led) development projects
- In three cases, as entities which are community or residents' associations.
- In two cases, as entities which run community centres.
- In one case, the local youth centre.

Charitable Status

Where possible, the Charities Registration number is given under the entity name. This is a six-digit number preceded by CC. Not all community organisations are registered as charities; most have some kind of legal incorporation. All key organisations have legal status though only some have charitable status. They are all not for profit organisations.

Public interest/good

Where the primary purpose of the organisation is to provide services to support the wellbeing of the community, even if they are commercial entities, these have been included. These include medical practices, pharmacies, schools and preschools. For commercially run exercise classes, see the website of the community centre in question for class times. These vary from term to term in many cases so it has not been possible to put every single class into this booklet.
